Shatnez found in Hickey Freeman Pants

Slacks and suit pants rarely have a shatnez problem. Nonetheless, sometimes pants do contain shatnez.

A beige linen fabric was discovered in a 100% wool Hickey Freeman (U.S.A) suit. The linen was located inside, by the waistband. (See picture above.) This design change in Hickey Freeman suits is disturbing. People frequently neglect to bring the pants along with the jacket when checking a suit at the shatnez laboratory.

This suit was purchased at Saks Fifth Ave.
