Sweaters with Appliqués require to be tested for Shatnez

Written By: R' Yosef Stolz (Shatnez Laboratory Los Angeles, California) - February '08

One sister inherited a sweater from her older sister. The younger sister insists on testing everything for Shatnez. The older sister doesn't feel that everything needs to be checked.

In a bag of sweaters and skirts I found this sweater:

My eye caught the look of the flower appliqués:

This is what the label said:

66% Wool
34% Angora Rabbit Hair

Embroidery:

55% Linen
45% Viscose

Made in Hong Kong
