Shatnez in Baggio Men's Suits

Shatnez was recently found in Baggio men's suits. The collar stiffener was linen.

This is disturbing because the tag inside the suits states clearly, "NO LINEN INSIDE".

Equally disturbing, some of the tested suits had been repaired. However, an examination of the repair job revealed numerous linen threads remaining.

Anyone who purchased a Baggio suit, even if had been repaired, is urged to have the suit tested for shatnez.

This incidence of shatnez was discovered by the Boro Park and Flatbush Shatnez Laboratories.
